Synopsis

2012. A massive comet is five hours from crashing into Earth. Impending annihilation. Everyone is doomed. The fatal comet that is about to crash into Earth can be seen glowing across the sky. After America's plan to blow up the comet fails, cities empty to seek shelter. Only one record store remains open. Five strangers are gathered to discuss and resolve the fate of the world.

A man in a wheelchair, claims that the Earth is doomed. 'The probability is 100%, not 99%.' But the manager just calmly mumbles, 'The Righteous Apostle will save the Earth'. The song, 'Fish Story' by a nameless 70's band can be heard playing on the record turn table. The back of the album cover reads: 'There is a silent pause during the song. It was put there by the song writers intentionally'.

Does this obscure punk song contain the ingredients to save our way of life? That's what these strangers will find out by revisiting the inception to "Fish Story," travelling in time to 1975, 1982, 2007 and 2009 in this miracle drama waiting to thrill and save audiences around the world!
