Synopsis

In The Colette's Heroines Collection, her women are brought to vivid life through the passion, creativity and desires of these wonderful films. You too can see why Colette's beloved characters have so profoundly influenced French culture. Explore France's most secret, lusty tales, with these four classic stories.

"The Ripening Seed" follows Vinca Ferret (Sophie Aubry), a fifteen-year-old French girl with "eyes the color of April showers," and Phillipe Audebert (Matthieu Rozé), a sixteen-year-old boy in the "full vigor" and impatience of youth. The film follows the two as their relationship grows from playful, innocent friendship, to the fumbling beginnings of adolescent love. Their mutual affection (and desires) have always been apparent, but everything changes when Philippe meets a strange woman who introduces him to the world of carnal love, leaving Vinca wondering what to do next.
